

DOG AND THE HORSE

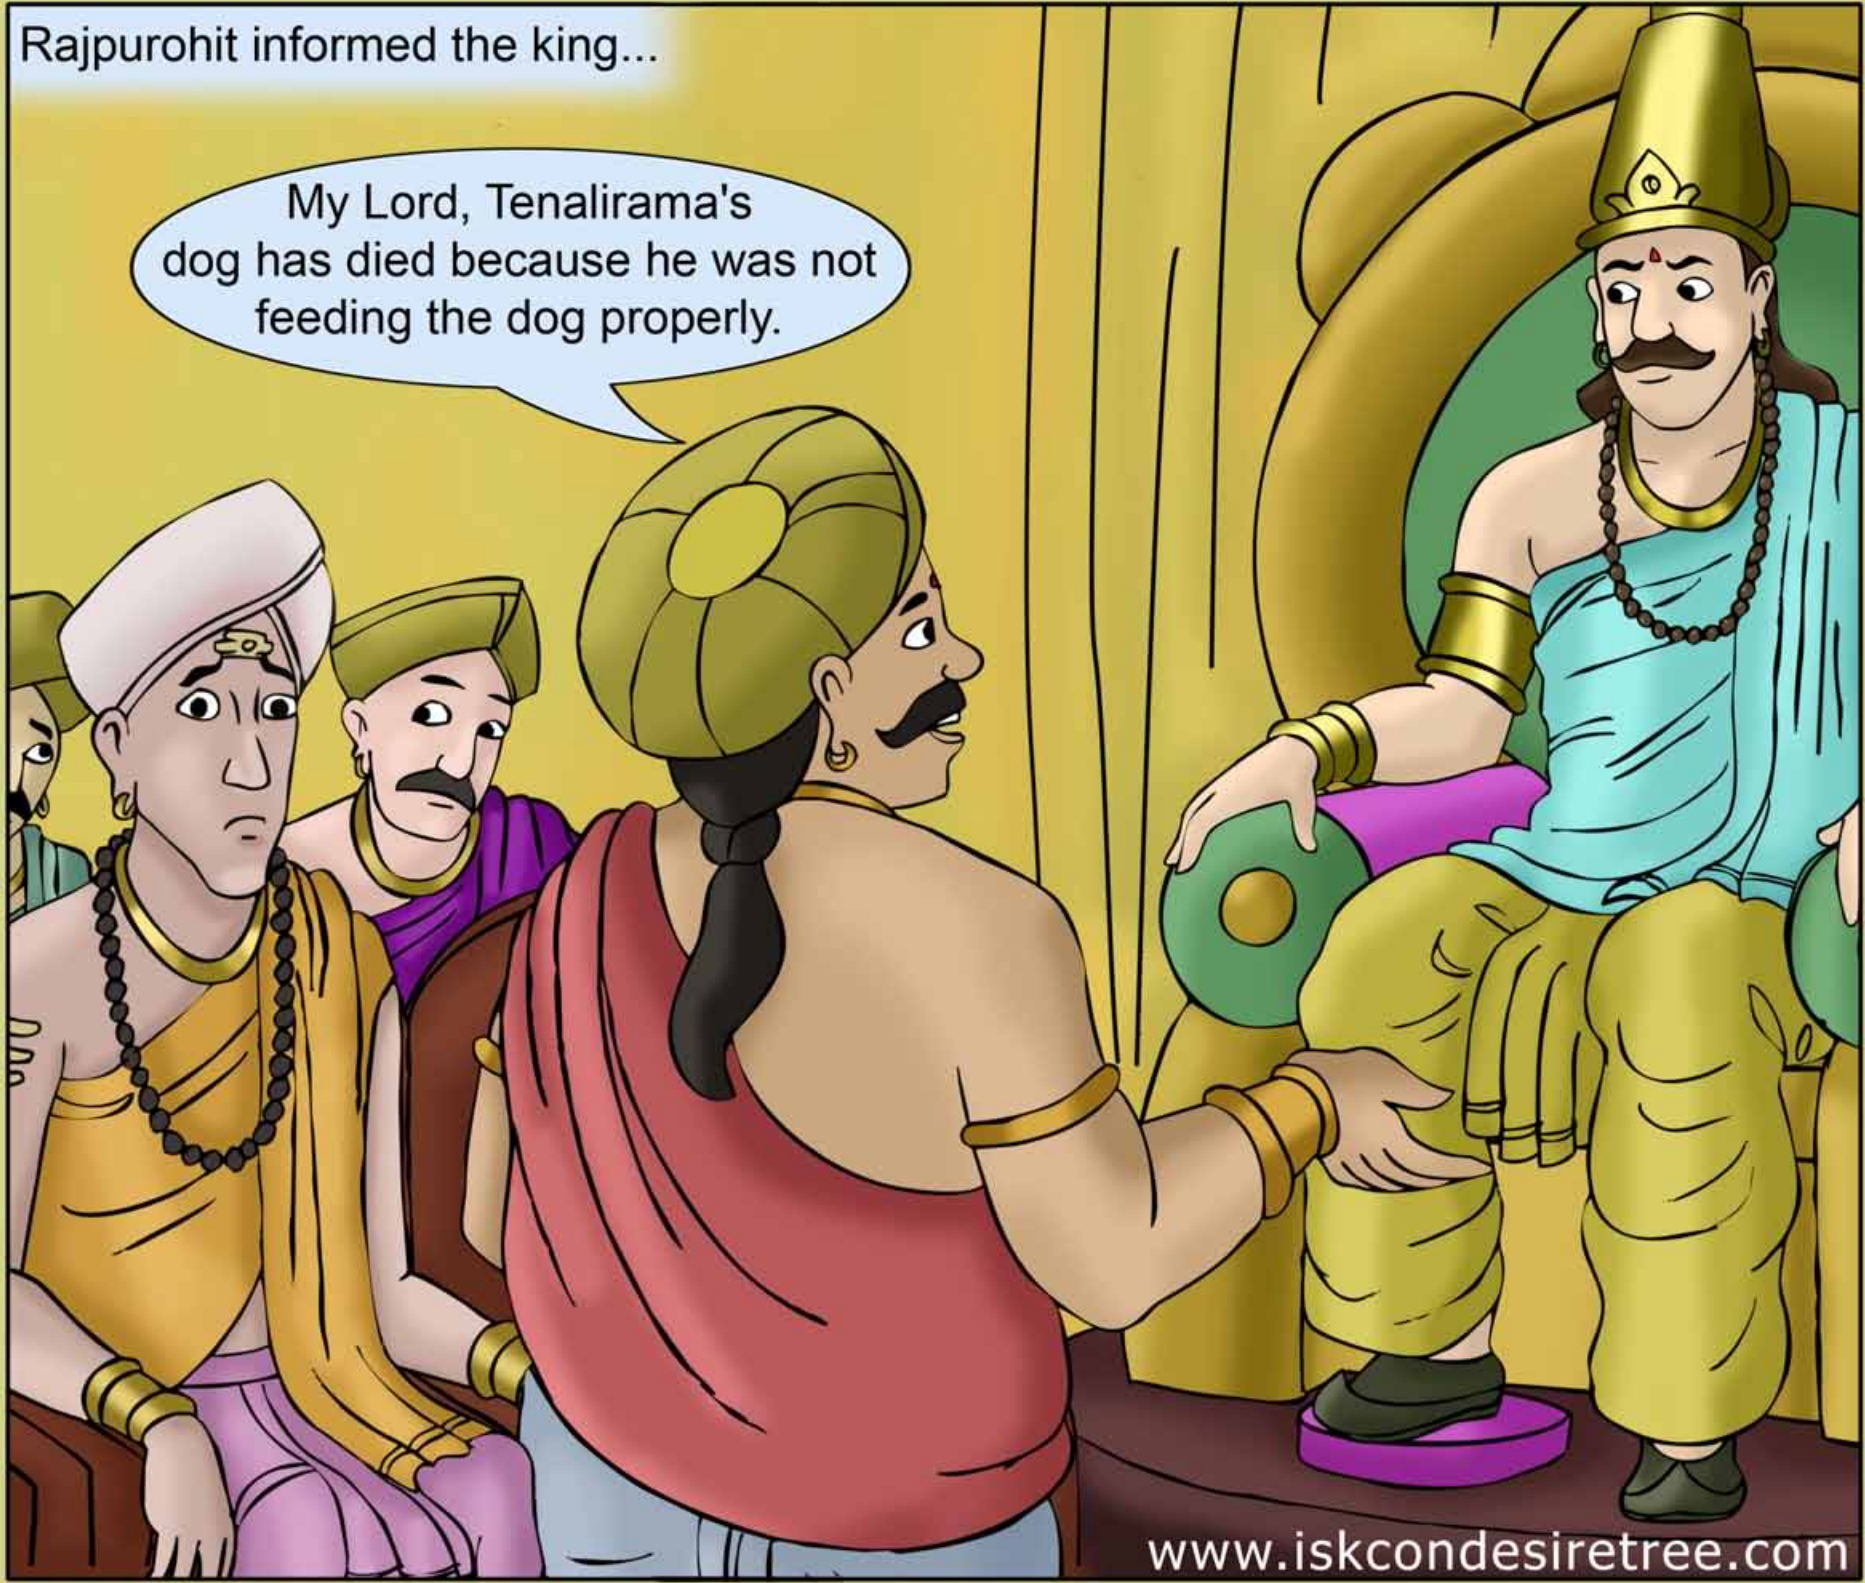

One day Rajpurohit's spy broke the news...

Tenalirama's dog
has died

This is a good time for me to take a revenge

Rajpurohit informed the king...

My Lord, Tenalirama's dog has died because he was not feeding the dog properly.

Oh!
That is very sad

My Lord, Tenalirama is a miser. In order to save few paise, he has killed his dog.

What? This is very bad. Tenalirama should be punished.

Tenalirama, as a atonement, you will have to feed the entire assembly a great feast. This way you will stop from being a miser.

I am a poor man.
How you think can I pay for such an expense? The fest will easily cost Rs.100.

You may not have any money, but surely you have the royal horse that the King gifted you. You can sell that in the market and pay for the feast.

If I sell the horse
than I will have to come walking everyday from my house.

Better come walking. This will be a good repentance.

Ok! I will sell the horse and pay for the great feast. However, today is sunday and a market holiday. So maybe you can spend on the feast and tomorrow
I will repay you.

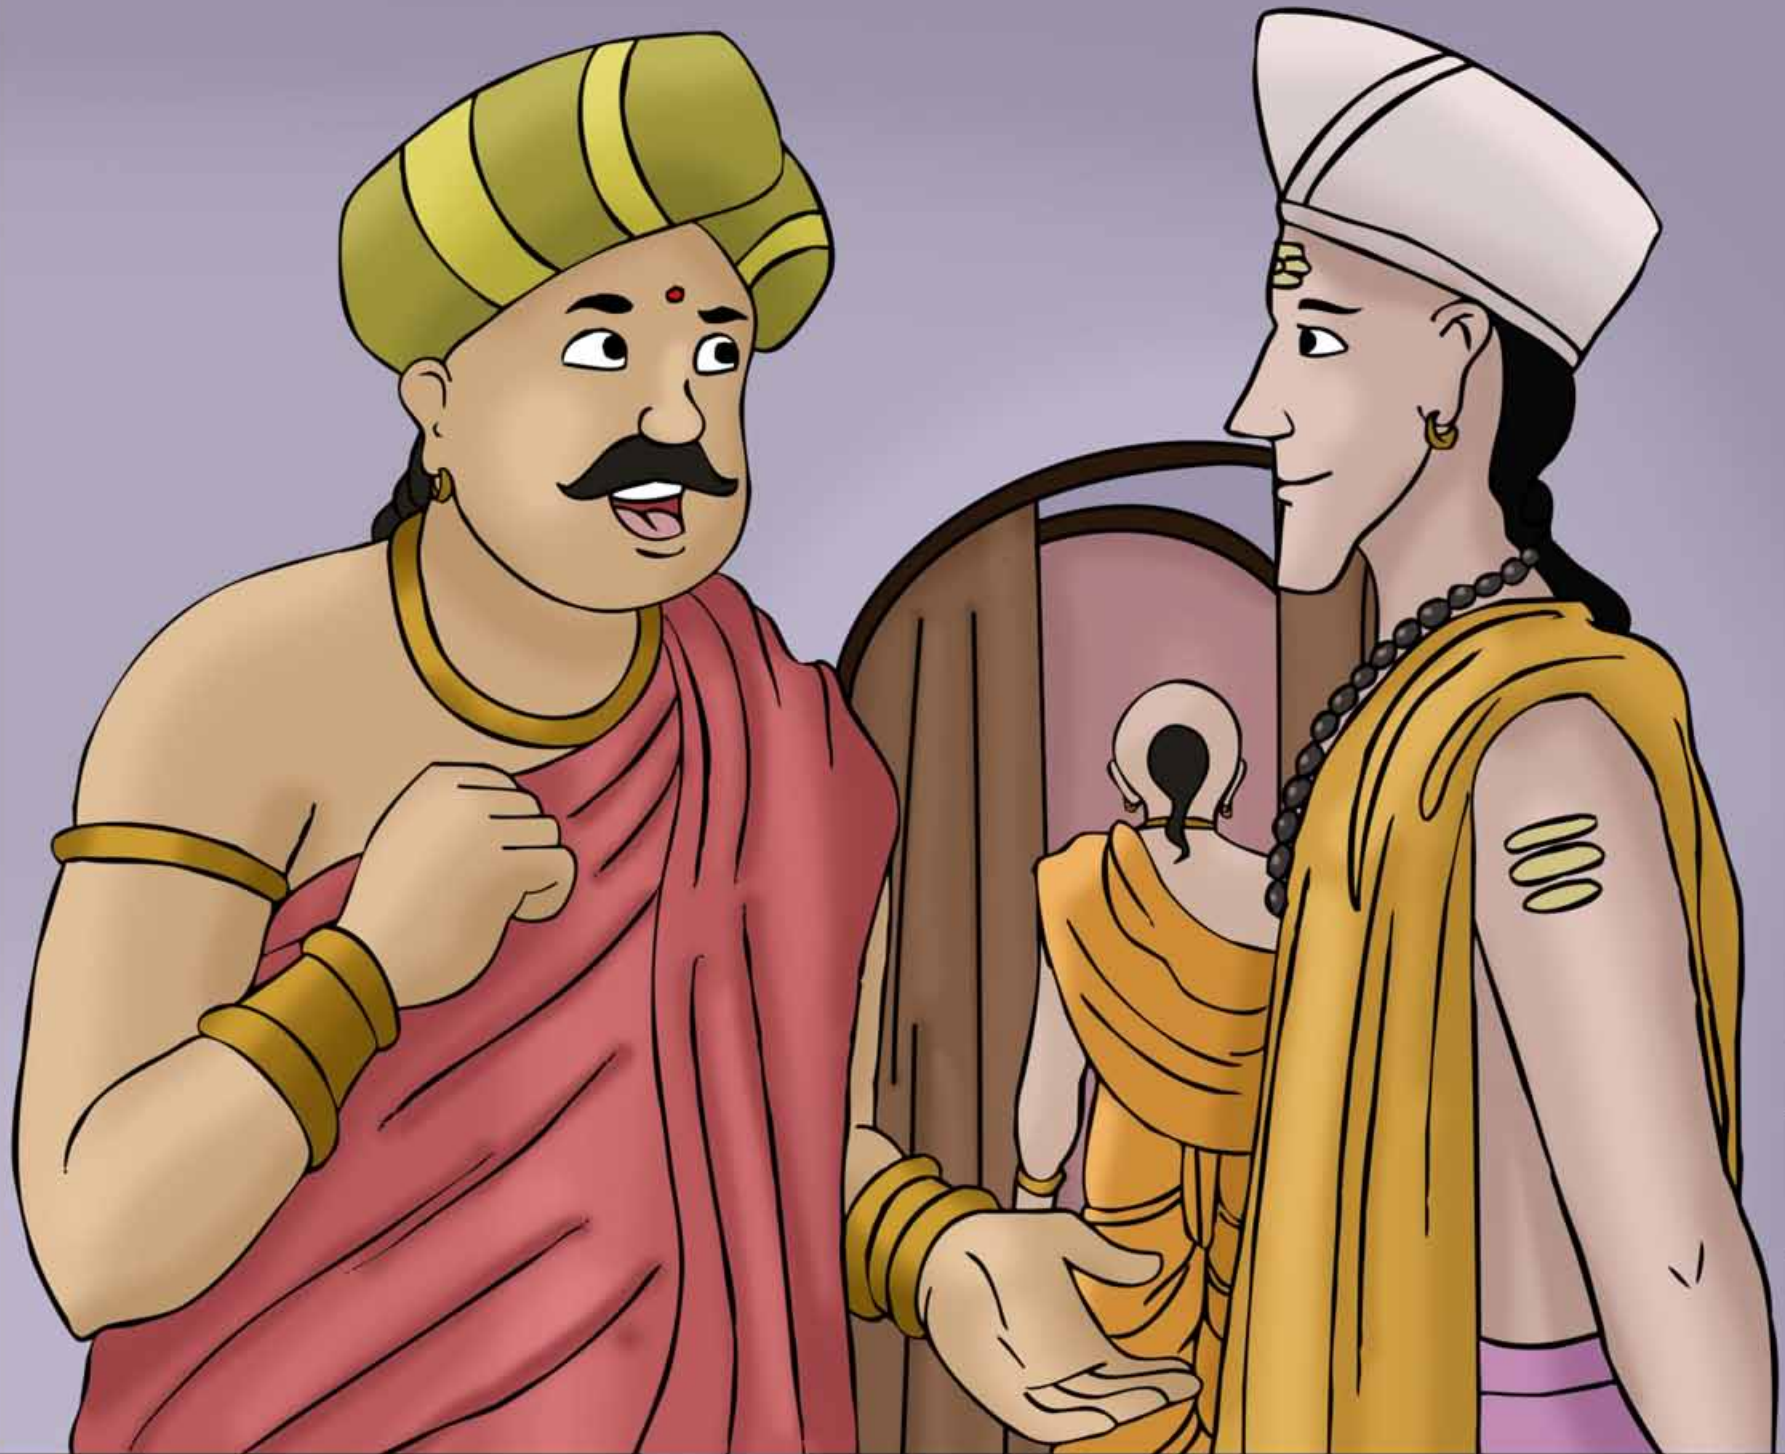

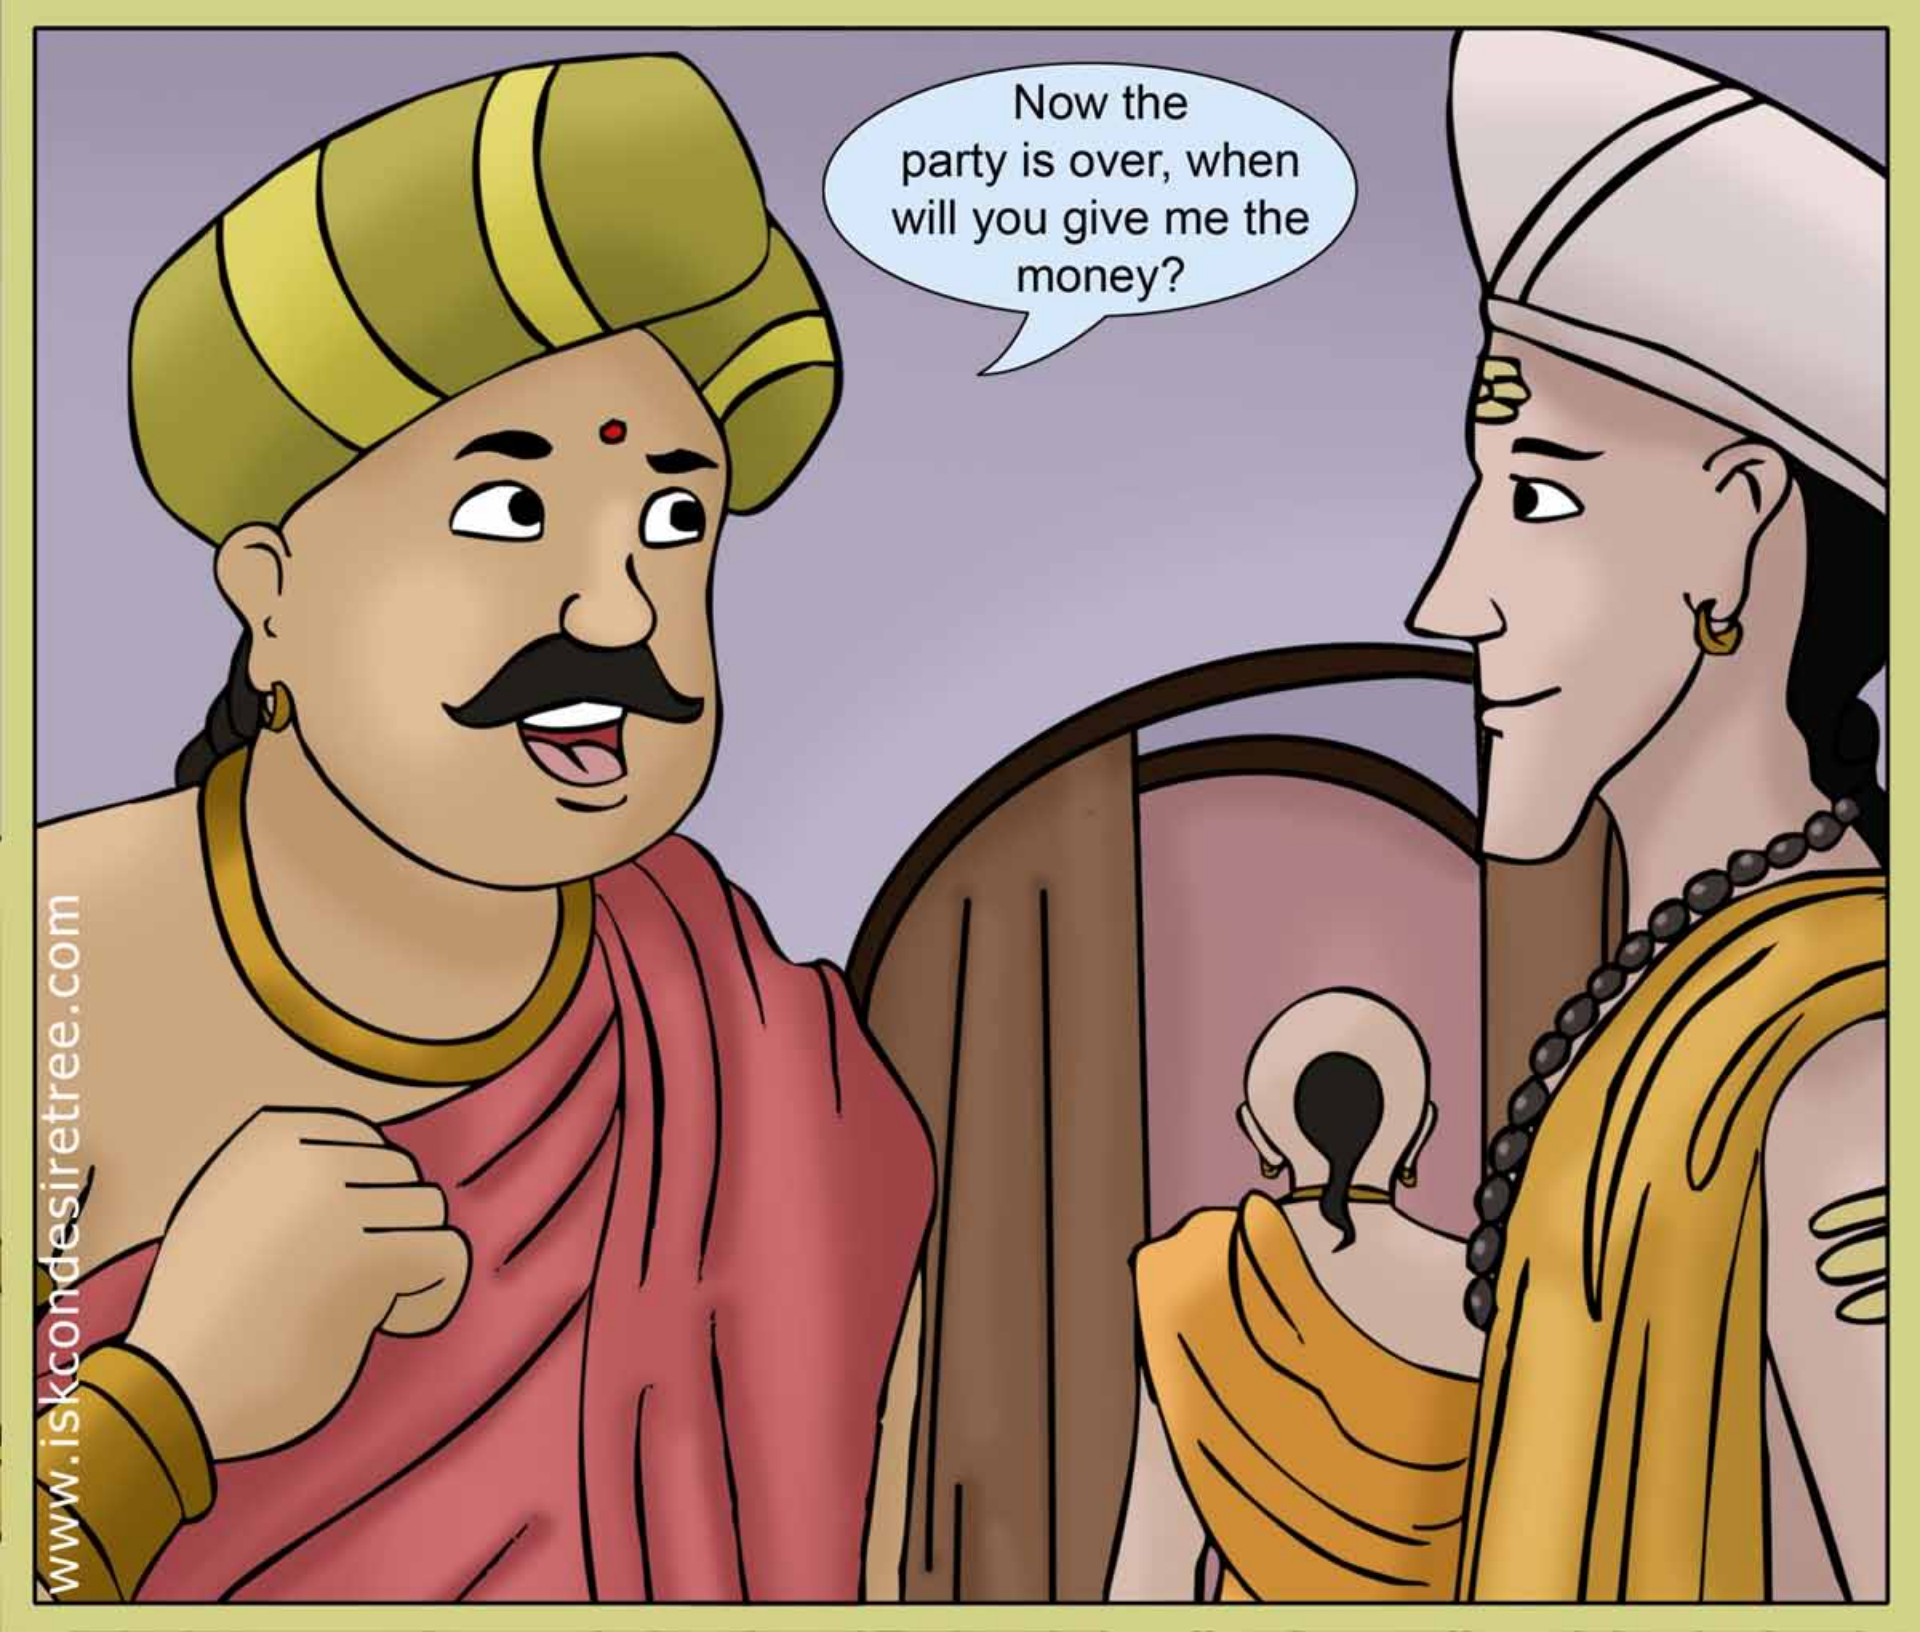

Rajpurohit knew that the cost of the horse was far more than the cost of the feast.

If you want to borrow form me than you have to pay for interest. In that case whatever is the price that your horse fetches, you will have to pay me all.

Thus the ministers had a great feast at the cost of Tenalirama.

Now the party is over, when will you give me the money?

Don't worry. Tomorrow
we shall both go together and sell the horse. Whatever the horse fetches will be yours.

Next day Tenalirama came to the market with the royal horse and a basket of flower.

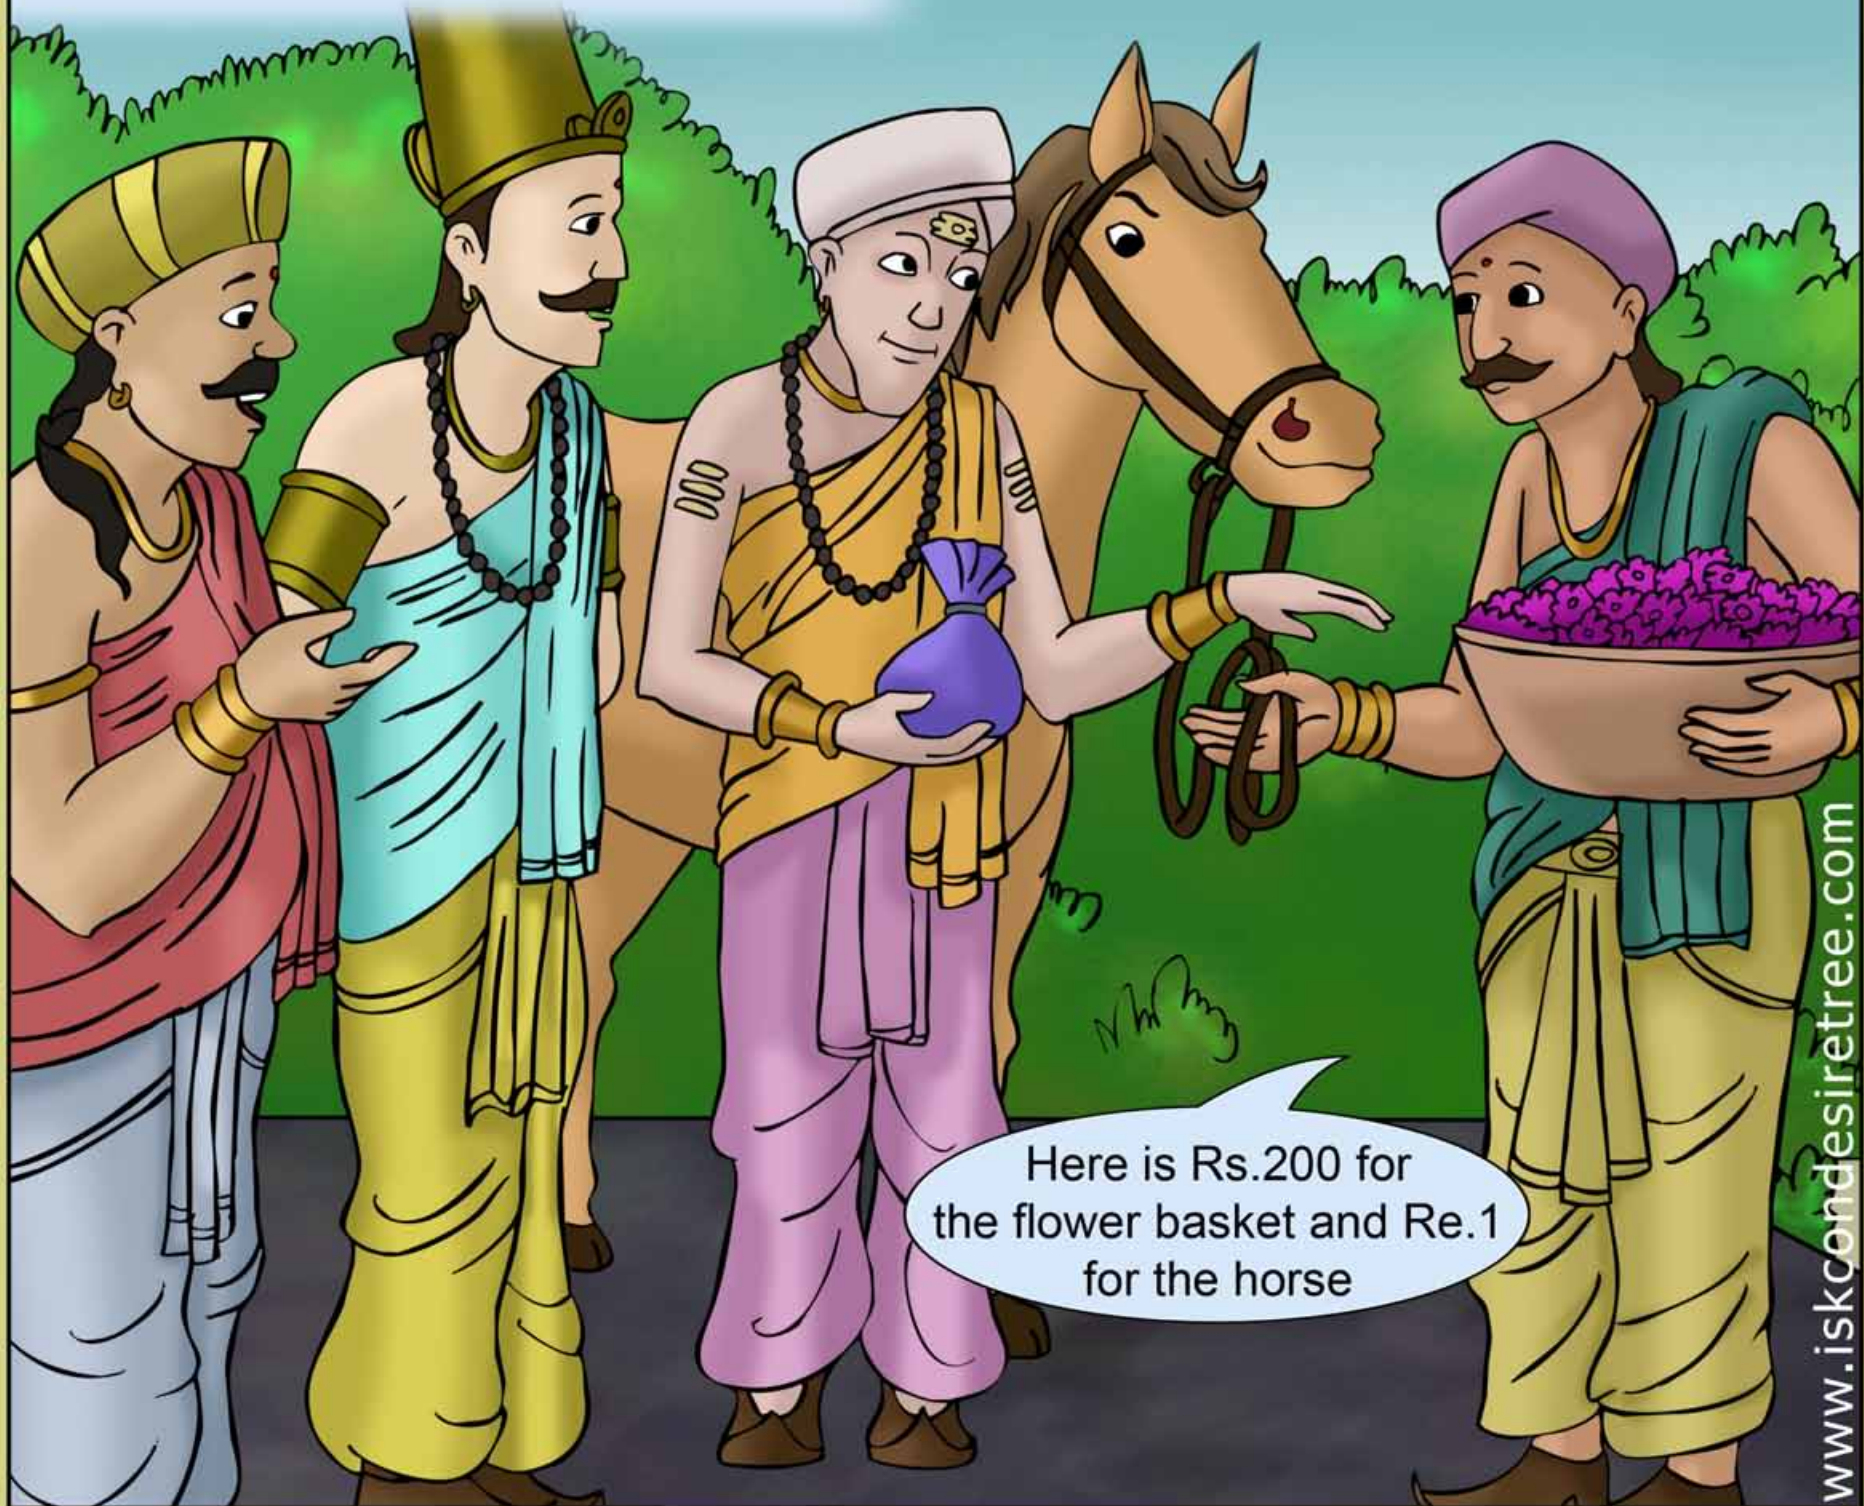

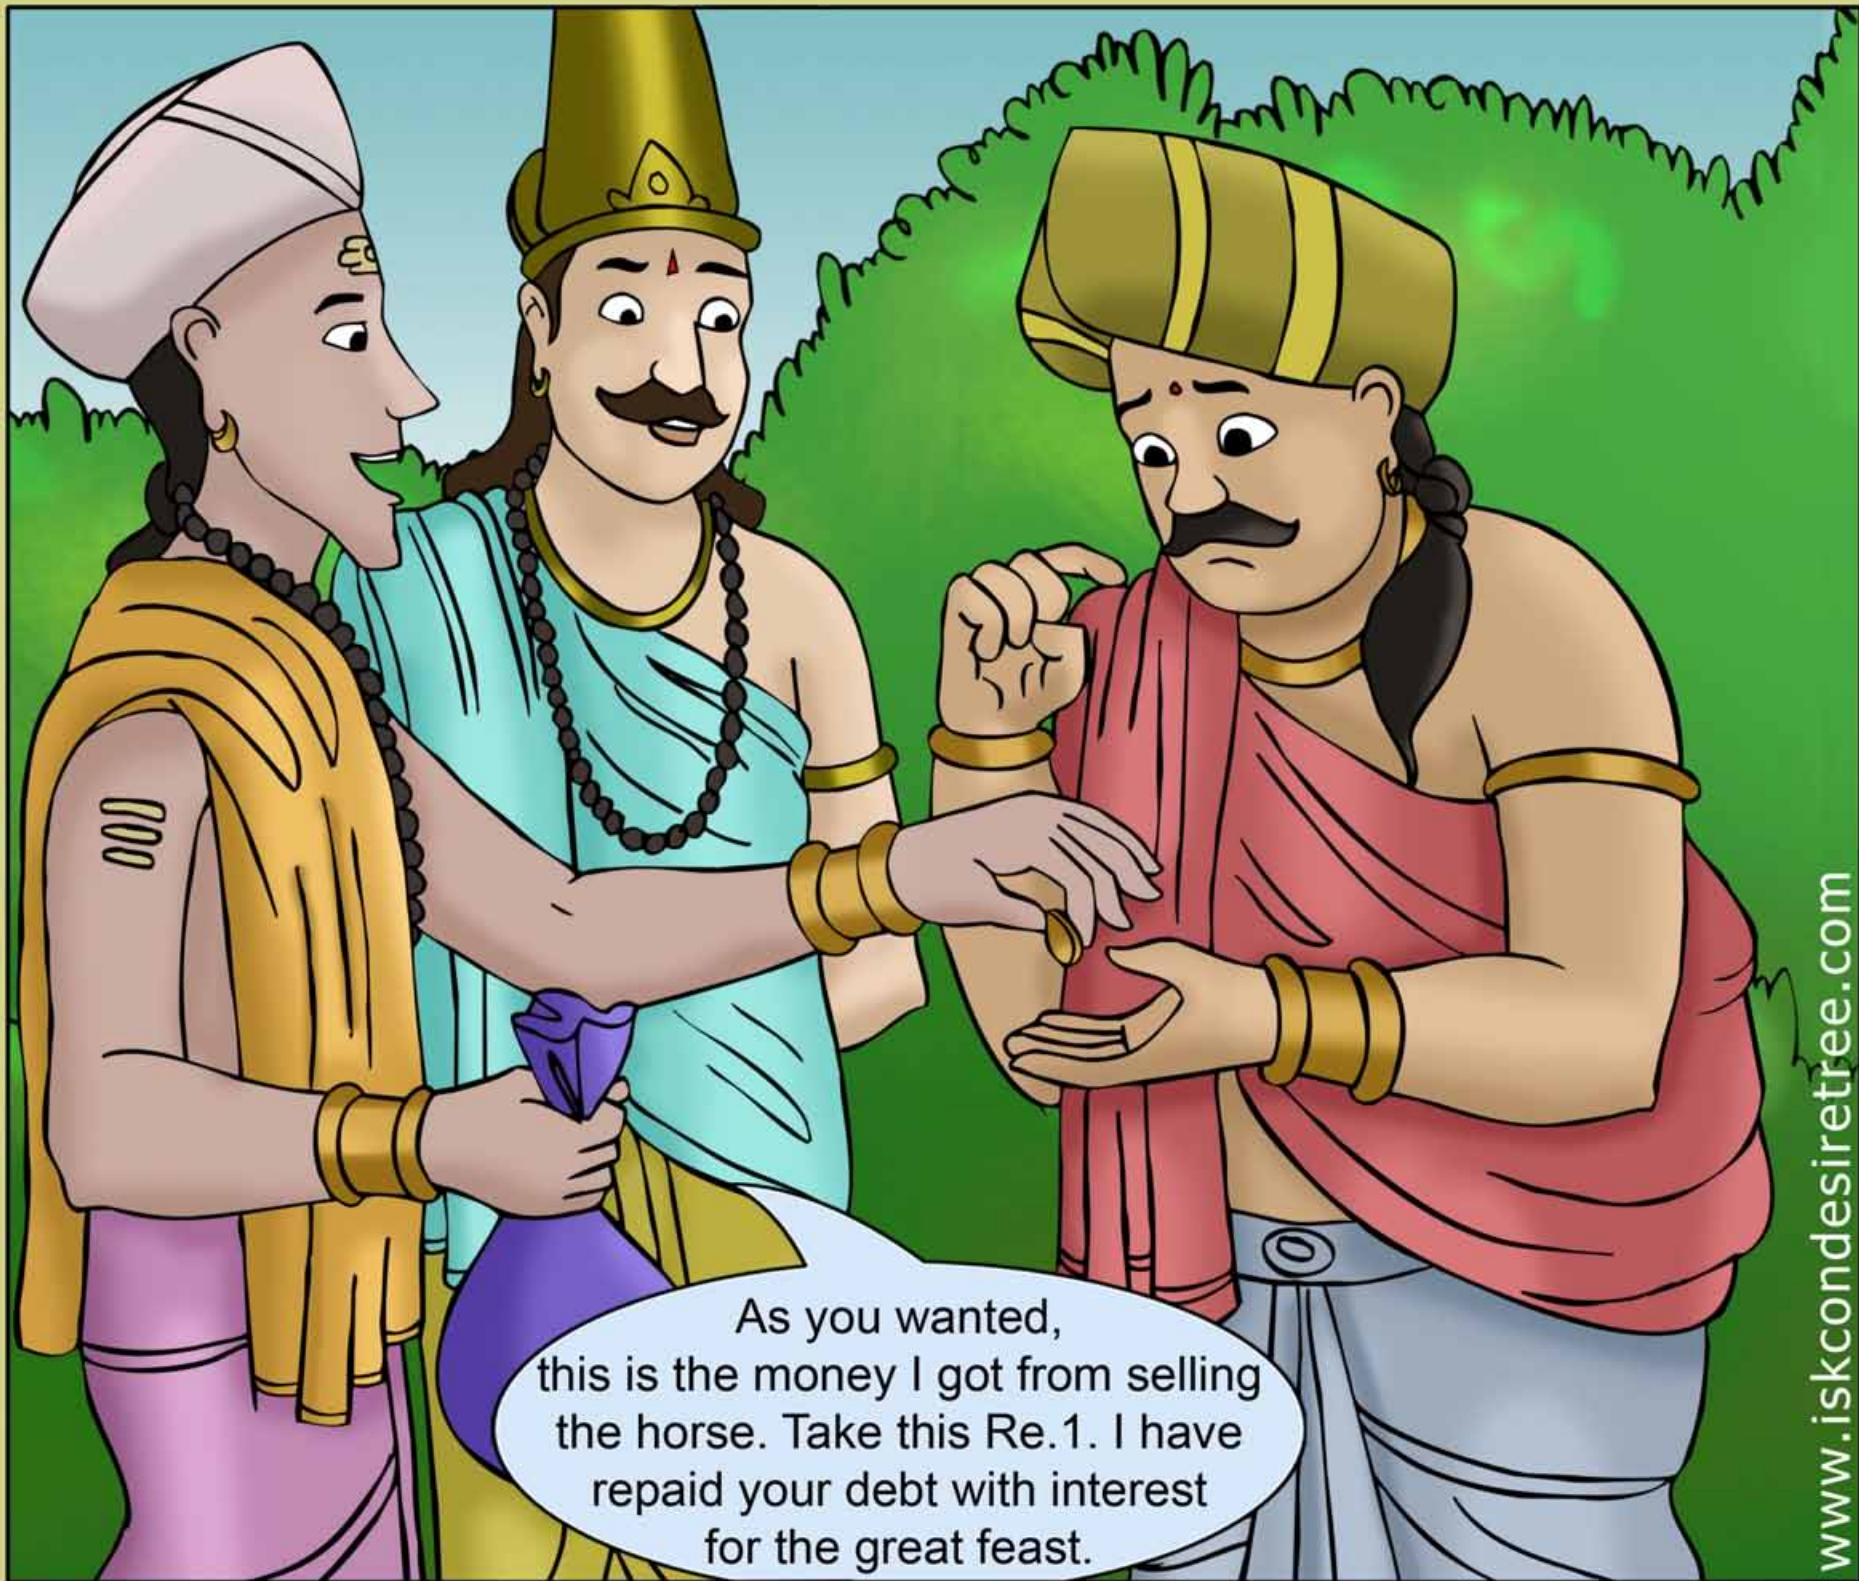

Wow, that is a great deal! The cost of the flower basket is high but it is worth buying it a the cost of the horse is very cheap.

The flower basket was sold immediately

As you wanted,
this is the money I got from selling the horse. Take this Re.1. I have repaid your debt with interest
for the great feast.

Rajpurohit spend Rs.100 for the feast. and in return he was expecting much more. Tenalirama used his intelligence and made Rajpurohit pay for the false allegation about the dog's death.

MORAL :

Similarly, Krishna is supremely intelligent. One should not try to cheat the Lord. If one tries to cheat the Lord than he will end up paying more.